

Actions often results from specific causes

A condition is something that can be true or false

A conditional connects a condition to an outcome beginner

intermediate advanced

Each of the two states of a condition may have its own action

Conditional statements evaluate conditions and complete connected actions

Sometimes multiple conditions must be considered

Conditions can overlap and more than one can apply

A Boolean is a variable that can be true or false

Conditional statements can create branches in the flow of execution

Computers require all actions to be specified

Logical operators can be used to combine conditions

Conditional statements can be combined in several ways

